

HOME HAPPENINGS

A special meeting of Argus Masonic lodge was held Thursday evening to confer the E. A. degree upon a candidate.

The ladies of the Christian church will serve a roast beef and pork supper in town hall Saturday evening from 5 to 8 o'clock. The public is invited.

C. J. Misner of this township threshed his oats crop Tuesday and reports a yield of 50 bushels to the acre, an unusual showing for this crop year.

Roy Fink and Phyllis Wetmore have been appointed game and fish wardens in Canfield township. They will see to it that no unlawful hunting is done in this neighborhood.

The Canfield football team played in Struthers last Sunday afternoon, but the boys proved no match for the big and husky Struthers eleven, which was able to score almost at will.

Heber Donaldson of this township has just completed one of the largest silos in this county. It is 45 feet high, of great diameter, and will hold an immense quantity of green feed.

The annual meeting of the Mahoning County Fishing and Pleasure Co. will be held at the Edgewood lake club house Saturday evening, Oct. 24, to elect officers for the ensuing year and transact other business.

County School Superintendent Jerome Hull has called a meeting of all teachers who signed for the extension school class to be held in college chapel, Canfield, Saturday, Oct. 17, at 10:30 a. m., central time.

The long drought was broken last Friday evening when a fall in torrents. This and several subsequent showers have greatly revived vegetation. A hurricane preceded the storm Saturday evening but aside from blowing down many apples no great damage was done in this locality.

John Deifs the other day received a letter from his sister in Germany telling him that his three nephews, her sons, are now serving in the German army. The young men had been rejected on account of slight physical disabilities in time of peace but when they recently responded to the call to arms all were accepted.

Patsy McNulty caused the arrest of an Erie section hand Saturday night on charge of assault and battery. Mayor Jones heard the case Monday morning and found no ground for complaint. Patsy had been pushed away from a box car into the section men and he labored under the notion that he was entitled to damages.

George W. Kelly, for many years a resident of Canfield, died recently in the Orange county hospital near Orange, Cal. Mr. Kelly had been in poor health for some time and went to the hospital the first of this year. He was a plasterer and shoe-maker by trade. On account of his health he left Canfield eight years ago and for a long time was located in Glendora.

Last week's issue of the Pittsburgh Christian Advocate contained the following mention of former residents of Canfield: J. A. Wright, Jr., son of the Rev. J. A. Wright, a retired member of the North-East Ohio Conference, has been elected "Associate Director of the Department of Journalism" of the State University at Bloomington, Ind. A. A. the father makes his home with the son and family his address will be 515 East Second street, Bloomington, Ind.

During the electrical storm last Friday night lightning struck a large elm tree in front of P. T. Jones' residence on North Broad street, badly damaging it. The bolt struck well up in the top and split a large limb at the crotch so that it is a danger of falling. The trunk of the tree was silvered and the bark torn off all around it. Occupants of the Jones home were considerably shocked. Attorney E. R. Ziegler was returning home from Youngstown in his automobile and barely missed being under the tree, which stands near his driveway, when the flash came. Had he been a half minute earlier arriving home he no doubt would have been killed.

Wednesday morning O. R. Bryley, wife and child arrived in Canfield on their way from Portland, Maine, to Des Moines, Iowa. The family occupied a covered two-horse wagon which contained their few belongings. Mr. B. is a blacksmith and not being satisfied with conditions in Portland determined to return to his old home in New Mexico. He sold his shop and purchased two teams of horses, wagon and buggy, and with his little family, set his face toward the southwest. When the party reached Canfield 56 days had been spent on the road and Mr. B. figured that about half his journey was over. The family camps out, using the wagon for sleeping quarters. Last Saturday night two of Mr. B's horses tied to a tree were killed by lightning, making it necessary to nearly double the load of the remaining team. The party left here for Canton.

J. H. Leyda, who resides a mile and a quarter east of the village, had an experience with chicken thieves about midnight last Friday. Hearing a disturbance in his chicken house Mr. Leyda and his hired man went out to investigate. Mr. Leyda went around one side of the building and his man the other. As Mr. Leyda neared the door out came a man whom he commanded to halt. The thief immediately opened fire on Mr. Leyda with a revolver but the bullet missed its mark. Then a pal appeared and both men jumped into a crack-wagon standing near and whipped the horse into a gallop. The rig went west and turned north at what is known as the mud school house. Mr. Leyda got busy with the telephone and called up several men living along the road taken by the thieves, but none were able to stop them. It is known that the thieves went to Youngstown and made the Market street bridge. Mr. Leyda does not know just how many of his chickens were taken, but is quite certain that if the thieves had not been disturbed none would have been left. Miss Lillian Wehr, a neighbor, lost six or eight small chickens which had been secured before the Leyda poultry house was raided. One of the thieves was barefoot as shown by large tracks in the mud next morning.

Repairs were made this week on the Brainerd building on Broad street.

Premiums awarded at the recent county fair are now being paid by treasurer W. J. Dickson.

Last Sunday was an ideal day and every road in this neighborhood seemed to be lined with automobiles.

Judge J. Calvin Ewing is arranging for a big stock sale on his farm south of the village Tuesday, Oct. 27.

The annual election of three directors for the Mahoning County Agricultural Society will be held in Canfield, Wednesday, Nov. 4.

Wednesday morning while Mrs. J. A. Flick, who resides on High street, was carrying some flowers to a neighbor she slipped and fell, breaking one of the bones of her left wrist.

On account of the disagreeable weather Tuesday night only a small crowd turned out to hear Judge J. W. Roberts of Ashtabula discuss the temperance question in town hall.

Canfield for several years celebrated Halloween with a great carnival but no move has been made so far to keep up the custom this year. A directing head seems to be missing.

On account of provisions in the will of the late Christian Cramer, the sale of the Cramer farm, one mile north of the village, to Reuben Burkley of Berlin township may be declared off.

The Altimo Gas Co. is drilling for gas on J. B. Kirk's farm, a mile and a half south of the village. The well is down several hundred feet and will probably be completed some time next week.

Boardman citizens desire to arrange with the Altimo Gas Co. for a supply of gas from Canfield wells, and it is understood that general manager W. Jarvis Smith has submitted a proposition to parties interested.

Last Saturday evening five old friends from Youngstown called upon C. H. Kennedy at his home on West Main street and spent several hours most enjoyably. Years ago the men worked together in the old Youngstown rolling mill and many incidents of those days were recalled and recounted.

Rev. John Haslet, Youngstown, will speak on the subject of State Prohibition in College Chapel, Monday, Oct. 19, at 8 p. m., eastern time. Miss E. Alberta Brenner, a popular vocalist of Youngstown, accompanied by Mrs. Frances Raymond McGaha, pianist, will be present to add a pleasing musical entertainment to the occasion.

Every man is a part of this town. The town embraces the fortunes, and in some measures at least takes on the character of the man. So loyalty to one's town is no more than loyalty to one's self; and this loyalty is in the line of all well shaped human nature. Therefore it is right to say that the man who does not stand up for his town is somewhat dwarfed.

A gentleman from Pittsburgh was in Canfield a few days since looking for a location to establish a clay-working business. His specialty is supplies needed in installing electric lights. To start with ten or a dozen people would be employed. He was not asking for a bonus, an acre or two of ground being all that he desired. The board of trade will see that he gets the land.

ELLSWORTH TRAGEDY

JAMES LODWICK SHOT HIS WIFE AND THEN KILLED HIMSELF WITH A SHOTGUN.

As the result of a shooting affair in Ellsworth Wednesday evening, James Lodwick lies cold in death and his wife, Maude Lodwick, is in the Youngstown City hospital suffering from gunshot wounds in her breast and one arm. The tragedy occurred about 6:30 o'clock at the Lodwick home a short distance south of Ellsworth center. Lodwick had been working at painting with Mr. Hammond during the day, and no one seems to know just what happened at the home before the shooting took place. Mrs. Lodwick evidently ran out of the house and had reached the back porch when her husband opened fire at her with a shotgun. The charge scattered, part of it striking her in the breast and arm, the remainder tearing a great hole in a partition in the porch. When Wm. Cutting, father of Lodwick, came running out of the house Lodwick struck him in the face with the butt of the gun, breaking his nose. Lodwick then made his way to the adjoining lawn in front of S. B. Brooke's residence and turned the gun upon himself. The shot tore away his forehead and riddled his brain. Despite the terrible wound he lived three hours. Neighbors hearing the shooting rushed to the scene. Mrs. Lodwick was found writhing in agony but no sound came from Lodwick although it was ascertained that he was still alive. Dr. Patton was summoned from North Jackson and attended the woman but could do nothing for the man. Mrs. Lodwick's wounds were bleeding profusely. She was so weak from the loss of blood when the doctor arrived that she could not lift her hand. An invalid carriage was called from Youngstown, and with her father, was hurried to the Youngstown City hospital. At the hospital Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock it was said that the woman was doing well and would probably recover.

The tragedy was the result of family trouble. People passing the Lodwick home had heard the couple quarreling at different times, and the past week disagreements had been frequent. That Lodwick had determined to end his troubles and the lives of himself and family is shown by a note found in one of his pockets which in substance said that "Whoever finds this will find us all dead. Bury us together in the old cemetery." Ellsworth people are not inclined to tell what they may know concerning the disagreements of the Lodwick family, but of the half dozen or more citizens interviewed by the Dispatch all spoke kindly of Mr. Lodwick. They credited him with being an industrious, genial, high-spirited man, one who was always ready to go out of his way to do good turns for others. The couple was married some seven or eight years ago and two children were born to them, Laura, aged six, and Myrtle, aged three. Mr. Lodwick was a native of Austintown township, about 34 years old, a coal miner by occupation, but for several years had worked at painting with Ressler Bros. and Mr. Hammond. His wife is about 27 years of age. Lodwick leaves his mother and two brothers in Austintown.

A detective visited Ellsworth Thursday morning to ascertain the possible cause of the tragedy, and developments are awaited with interest.

The funeral of Mr. Lodwick will be held Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock from the Presbyterian church and Rev. M. G. Jerrow will have charge of the services. Burial will be in the Ellsworth cemetery.
